

The Broadcast Flag is B.S. First and foremost it punishes early adopters of the HD technology like myself.

Early adopters are critical in getting a technology off the ground. My very expensive TV is not compatible with this broadcast flag junk.

I would like to get Tivo for my TV so that I can record programs and view them at my leisure. Currently there is not a Tivo product available that allows recording of HD broadcasts. I would have no reason to buy this product if you implement the broadcast flag law.

Don't punish Tivo and don't punish me. If the movie industry doesn't want people to record movies, then they shouldn't sell the movies to the television stations. No one is forcing them to do this. They do it by choice.
